the Balboa Reservoir neighborhood:

Dear Sir or Madam,

The parking lot at City College is underused and should be developed. However this project is way too big.

The City of San Francisco does not have the infrastructure (sewer, water, fire, transportation, local grocery shops) to support the density of the neighborhood as it currently is. The city will definitely not be able to support and sustain this new Balboa Reservoir neighborhood. As the pandemic has shown us, density is not always good--except for the developers who will be making money on their projects.

In addition, the Balboa Reservoir neighborhood will block the views of the Pacific Ocean from City College's historic campus. The grand entrance leading up to the Science Building, which faces west at the top of the rise, and which has endured neglect for so long, will also lose claim to its stately view.

That is a sad fact, adding insult to City College's ongoing injuries.

Please consider how to protect this aspect of City College.

Thank you,
Lisa Dunseth
